A Safer Trinity Park

Gun Violence Concerns Discussed at May TPNA Meeting

By Sam Griffith

A young man was fatally shot at 2am on April 28 near the intersection of Morgan and Watts Streets. This was the fourth shooting and second shooting death since last fall in this area adjacent to Trinity Park. Concerned neighbors discussed these shootings at the May TPNA Board meeting, held at the park on Wednesday, May 1.

Neighbor Dan Jewell opened the discussion by describing the area and context where the shootings occurred. Each weekend, three nightclubs in the vicinity -- Shooters, The Living Room, and Justin's -- draw crowds of up to 1000 people. After the clubs close at 2 am, people gather outside at the site of the former Papa John's where food trucks continue to serve food late into the night.

Several Lamond Avenue neighbors recounted hearing gunfire on multiple occasions and even having stray bullets enter homes.

In response to the shootings, neighbor Scott Schuett has been talking to business people in the area and has cultivated relationships with the police assigned to this locale. Scott believes, and others agreed, that the number of police officers present during these events was insufficient to keep the peace and diffuse tensions in the crowd. Scott felt that this was a symptom of many vacant spots in the Police Department rolls and low salaries for Durham police officers and other first responders. City Council member Carl Rist, also at the meeting, noted that the forthcoming City budget will include a 14% raise for police. The TPNA Board discussed several potential actions we could take to address the problem, including:

Contacting the owners of the former Papa John's space and request that they not allow the space to be used for late-night food truck business.

Finding out what Raleigh is doing as it wrestles with similar issues on Glenwood Avenue.

Requesting a meeting with the City Manager or other City representatives

The Board will revisit this issue at the June 5 TPNA Board meeting and thanks Scott Schuett for his tireless and thoughtful work on this issue.

As this newsletter went to press, TPNA President Mollie Flowe was scheduled to meet with the city manager and police chief in late May.

Safer Streets Sooner

By Mollie Flowe

Neighbors in Trinity Park know that Duke and Gregson Streets are scary, with cars rocketing along the one way streets at breakneck speeds. A recent presentation at the regional Metropolitan Planning Organization showed that our concern is well-founded. A study of traffic and accident data showed that the Duke and Gregson one-way pair had the highest safety risk of the 22 street corridors analyzed. Since Covid and the East End Connector changed traffic habits, the volume of traffic on Duke and Gregson has been down, while car speeds are UP.

The city is currently in the process of designing a safer traffic pattern for Roxboro and Mangum. Like Gregson and Duke, the Roxboro-Mangum pair is owned by the NCDOT. The TPNA Traffic Committee continues to work to encourage city leaders to take the lead on making these streets safer, sooner. Two-way streets significantly slow car speeds, and thus are safer for pedestrians, cyclists, students walking to school, workers waiting for buses, and also for drivers!

In March, as the city budget process got rolling, the Traffic Committee sent a letter to all City Council members requesting these budget priorities:

- Fully fund all planning and design of the Roxboro and Mangum conversions in the current (FY24) budget.
- Fully fund the implementation of the Roxboro and Mangum conversions in the FY25 budget.
- Fully fund the design of Duke, Gregson and Vickers Streets between Club Boulevard and University Drive in the FY25 budget.

- Commit to full local funding for the implementation of Duke, Gregson and Vickers Streets in FY26.
- Begin immediately to work with NCDOT on transferring responsibility for Duke, Gregson and Vickers Streets from NCDOT to the City.

The budget process is nearly complete, but there is still time to reach out to City Council members at citycouncilonly@durhamnc.gov.

The Traffic Committee understands that the draft budget may push off funding for the design of a Duke/Gregson conversion into FY26. That is not soon enough! Waiting to convert these streets to a safer design means accepting years' more wrecks and injuries.

Durham for DSA Advocates for Keeping DSA Downtown

By Matt Kopac

Durham School of the Arts (DSA), located on the southeast border of Trinity Park, is a vital community asset in the heart of downtown and an historic campus in sore need of improvement. The Board of Education (BOE) previously voted to build a new DSA in North Durham, but a years-long effort by school and community members to question the plan has persisted and recently coalesced into a group called "Durham for DSA".

Skyrocketing costs for the new campus combined with other critical school needs (like classified staff pay and student lunches) has given new momentum to the campaign as the school board is faced with a difficult choice: pursue new DSA and delay desperately needed elementary school renovations, or reconsider improving DSA in place.

With the expertise of planners, architects, engineers, and other advisors, Durham for DSA brought a proposal to the school board that would make DSA an exceptional place for our students and educators, while leaving enough money from the 2022 bond to renovate three elementary schools. The plan combines new construction and renovation and would keep students at a safe distance from construction. Staying in place would maintain accessibility for DSA families, avoid auto-oriented sprawl, and result in a much lower carbon footprint.

Durham for DSA will be present at the May 23 Board of Education meeting to advocate for pausing work on the new campus, assessing an alternate option, and engaging the community. As of this writing, we remain hopeful that there is still time to change course.

Foundation Update

Trinity Park Foundation Update

by Shelley Dekker

I am happy to report that Red Mill Landscaping came through for us and installed an irrigation system in the gardens in the northwest corner of the park. These are the gardens that border the park from the granite steps along W. Trinity Avenue around the corner to the granite steps on Watts Street. The Blossom Garden Club continues to care for the gardens in the park, and the group is thrilled that they will no longer have to lug heavy hoses around all summer long. We would again like to thank Peggy Kinney and Andy Stewart for contributing to this project through their monthly donations via PayPal.

In February we learned that the TPNA in partnership with the Foundation was awarded another grant from the Duke Office of Durham & Community Affairs to assist in restoring the brick and wood steps that lead into The Trinity Park from the W. Trinity Avenue sidewalk. We've hired Sundial Landscaping to do this work, and we expect the job to be completed in May. Thank you, Duke University, for offering these useful grants to the Durham community.

The Foundation continues to organize and support other maintenance work in The Trinity Park. Bartlett Tree Experts will be out to prune the dead wood out of the large ash trees in the park soon as well as several of the oaks. The Blossom Garden Club held workdays in the park in March and April, with several gardeners contributing plants to the park. Cavett French, Betsy Norman,

Chris Jewell, and Sarah Hodder each gave several plants.

Other 2024 Foundation projects include the replacement of the utility pole light in the park with a decorative street lamp, as well as having another one third of the Trinity median landscaped and mulched. Stay on the lookout for calls for volunteers to help weed, mulch, and contribute plants to our medians and park.

Finally we would like to thank Deb and James Dobbins for their annual donation to the Foundation. We are immensely grateful for their ongoing support. Please visit the Foundation's website at trinityparkfoundation.org if you would like to make a one-time or ongoing donation, or send a check to The Trinity Park Foundation, Inc., P.O. Box 725, Durham, NC 27702. If you have ideas for capital improvement projects within our neighborhood, email the Foundation Board at trinityparkfoundation@gmail.com.

2024 Trinity Park Home Tour

If These Houses Could Talk: Trinity Park Home Tour Planned for October 20

By Ana Bessias

Mark your calendars: The Trinity Park Home Tour is returning this Fall on October 20 from 12-5pm! This year's theme, If These Houses Could Talk, promises a glimpse into the unique stories and architectural gems that define our neighborhood. Expect to be surprised by historic details, inspired by renovations, and charmed by the quirky anecdotes residents will be sharing about the houses on tour. A time-honored tradition for over 40 years, the Trinity Park Home Tour is a fun way to connect with your community and discover the hidden stories our houses hold. Get ready for a day of exploration and connection, and see what new stories you might learn along the way.

Want to get involved? The Home Tour planning committee will be reaching out in a few months for docents and ticket sellers. Stay tuned.

Contact Tour chairs Susan Jakes (drmom2u@gmail.com) or Karalyn Colopy (karalyncolopy@gmail.com) with questions.

The 1981 Home Tour in Trinity Park included ten homes and one commercial property: Brighthead Square, historic tobacco warehouses renovated as a retail-office complex and scheduled to be opened to the public later that year.

Garden Tour - Great Success

Garden Tour a Great Success: Celebrating Nature in City Gardens & Landscapes

By Dale Pahl and Karalyn Colopy

The Trinity Park Garden & Landscape Tour was held on Sunday, April 28, on a beautiful, sunny afternoon. About 450 people attended the tour, exploring 12 unique gardens. It was a wonderful day for celebrating nature in our neighborhood. Neighbors and visitors engaged in conversations; shared gardening stories, successes and challenges; admired the scenery; sipped lemonade; and were even treated to a special performance of aerial silk dancing by some very talented young neighborhood aerialists!

Thank you to the 86 neighborhood volunteers who donated their time, knowledge, skills, and effort to make this special event happen -- planners, writers, docents, ticket sellers, yard sign placers, and designers.

We are deeply grateful to the neighbors who opened up their beautiful gardens: Joan Austin & Dan Morgan, Farm Church, Cavett & Barker French, Peggy Kinney & Andy Stewart, Diane & Dale Pahl, Emma & Brian Salomon, Courtney Sava & Rudy Goldschmidt, Sarah Stone & Bill Newton, Jessica & Lawrence Tilley, Matt Todd & Alice Bumgarner, Tom Wenger, and

Eddie Zuniga & Orlando Aguilar.
Thank you also to our generous sponsors for their support:

Adam Dickinson Realty Group
Marie Austin Realty Company

Garden Environments Sustainable
Landscape Design
Bartlett Tree Experts
Bountiful Backyards
Design Bank
The Rock Shop
Common Market
Indio
Sundial Landscaping

The Tour generated about $9,000 to be donated to (a) the Trinity Park Foundation to help maintain the Park and other public natural areas, and (b) the Farm Church to help create its new pollinator garden.

Aerial Silk Dances

Neighborhood Aerial Silks Dance Artists

By Karalyn Colopy

Adding to the festivities of the Garden Tour on April 28, two young neighbors, 7th graders Sadie and Violeta, treated tour goers to an extra special treat: an aerial silks dance routine on Dacian Ave. near one of the Tour gardens. I interviewed the dancers to learn more about this beautiful and fascinating art form.

Trinity Park News: How long have you been practicing aerial silks?

Violeta: About 8 years.

Sadie: About 5 years.

TPN: What inspired you to try it for the first time?

Violeta: I was taking a ballet class, and there was an aerial silks class going on in the same building. During water breaks, I could see the other classes.

Sadie: My friend was doing aerial silks and invited me to try it. I was doing gymnastics at that time.

TPN: How do you practice?

Sadie: I take classes at the JCC and DSBPA.

Violeta: I had been taking classes at the JCC before COVID, but stopped during COVID, and just did conditioning at home. Then after COVID, I didn't start classes again, but my mom got a rig for my backyard.

TPN: Sadie, do you wish you had a rig, too?

Sadie: Yeah, I want one.

TPN: Tell me how you came up with the performance on the day of the Garden Tour.

Sadie: First, we picked a song. We chose The Story of Us by Taylor Swift. Then it was lots of trial and error to figure out the moves.

Violeta: We'd have lots of improv sessions.

Sadie: Some things stayed the whole time, and some things changed. We knew we wanted to try some partner moves, because we hadn't done them before.

TPN: Are partner moves harder?

Sadie: Some are. It depends. Our rig is taller than the one we used to have, but not tall enough for some of the hardest moves.

My instructor came to Violeta's house to work on the partner moves with us.

TPN: When will you perform again?

Violeta: We're doing another performance for Halloween on Watts Street.

TPN: What songs are you considering?

Violeta: Probably something by Taylor Swift.

Sadie: Friends have asked us to do maybe "Haunted" or "Who's Afraid of Little Old Me."

TPN: Those sound like good songs for Halloween. I can't wait to see the routine you come up with! Thank you for performing for the neighborhood!

Meet My Neighbor

Meet My Neighbor: Eddie Zuniga and Orlando Aguilar

Interviewed by Steve Unruhe

Names: Heriberto Eddie Zuniga (He/Him) and his spouse Orlando Aguilar (He/Him) are the proud owners of H2O Hair Salon and Spa, which is situated at 1122 Broad St in Durham, North Carolina 27705. Interestingly, the name of their salon company is derived from their initials - H for Heriberto, O for Orlando, and 2 for the two of them. It's a clever little secret that not many people are aware of!

Address: Their beautiful home is located on Gloria Ave.

Occupation(s): Eddie serves as a hairstylist and is responsible for their salon company's management, while Orlando works as a nail technician and is the co-owner of the salon company.

Why did you move to Trinity Park?

Our love for the history and charm of Trinity Park led us to create a home that embodied the beauty of Charleston SC homes. After three years of hard work, we finally made our dream a reality. Now, we cherish our beautiful abode and the community that surrounds us.

What surprised you about Trinity Park?

It was heartwarming to hear that every person we spoke to expressed their admiration for our neighborhood. With its distinctive homes, each with its own charm and unique character, it's no surprise that our neighborhood is loved by all who visit.

The one thing I like best about Trinity Park?

It's amazing to see how close our community is to downtown Durham and Duke's east campus.

If I could improve one thing about Trinity Park it would be ...

It would be wonderful if we could all be a bit more friendly towards one another. Perhaps, we could come together once a year and celebrate our unity by closing down a street for a block party or gathering at the park.

It would be great to see more neighbors take pride in their homes and gardens to enhance the curb appeal of our community.

Thank you for sharing your amazing garden for the Garden Tour. Tell us what kind of time, energy and attention you give to the beautification of your yard.

I find gardening to be a relaxing activity that helps me unwind from a busy day. It's a great stress reliever to focus all my energy and attention on nurturing nature and watching beautiful flowers bloom. As beekeepers, we strive to do our part in helping the bee population thrive by cultivating a beautiful garden. It's a fulfilling cycle because the bees' gift to us is their delicious honey, which we enjoy consuming.

We express our utmost gratitude to Mr. Steve Unruhe and the Trinity Park Neighborhood Association for providing us with this exceptional opportunity.

Pearl Mill Preservation

Caring for the Pearl Mill Preserve: A New Challenge for Trinity Park?

By Julia Borbely-Brown

For several years, TPNA has been partnering with the Ellerbe Creek Watershed Association (ECWA) to assist with cleanups and other projects along the section of Ellerbe Creek that runs through the edge of our neighborhood. Recently we participated in two successful workdays at the Pearl Mill “bioretention cell” at 700 Markham Ave. adjacent to Ellerbe Creek--one last fall and another on Friday March 22.

The bioretention cell is like a giant rain garden. It’s a pond bed that is normally dry but is ready to receive large amounts of water. When it rains, storm water is channeled into it, and the water slowly seeps into the ground over the course of hours or days, making its way into the creek underground. This helps prevent stormwater from flowing rapidly over land into the creek, which would erode the creek’s banks and carry pollutants and sediment into the creek. Instead, pollutants and storm debris remain in the bioretention, which then has to be cleaned out from time to time. The Pearl Mill bioretention has been particularly in need of maintenance lately due a lot of loose soil and debris from nearby construction sites.

THANK YOU to the ~20 volunteers who pitched in on March 22 to clean up the Pearl Mill bioretention. Volunteers came from at least five other neighborhoods in addition to Trinity Park: Old North Durham, Watts Hospital Hillandale, Northgate Park, Tuscaloosa Lakewood and Duke Park! Our crew spent the morning removing weeds, dead plants, trash and compacted sediment from the bottom of the bioretention and from the inlet bays, and adding mulch. Doing this periodically ensures that the bioretention will continue to do its job, allowing stormwater to seep into the ground. Workdays typically last about 3 hours and can also include tasks such as planting native species, removing invasive species, and removing gravel from the storm drains that feed the bioretention.

ECWA is now hoping that Trinity Park, with the help of other neighborhoods, would take responsibility for the quarterly workdays that this space requires. The question before Trinity Park and TPNA is: Do we have enough interest and energy to take on this ongoing project? TPNA would be the lead group to select the workday, recruit volunteers, and organize and supervise the activity that day.

If you want to be involved, please send your name and contact information to Karalyn Colopy (karalyncolopy@gmail.com).

JOIN TPNA

You love Durham. You love Trinity Park. Join TPNA.

By Jill Wright

Thanks to all who helped make the March Membership Madness contest a success! 27 neighbors joined TPNA or renewed their membership during March and April: 9 first-time members and 18 renewals.

Congratulations to our lucky raffle winners! Colin Shepherd (new member) and John Schneider (current member) $25 gift cards to Yonderlust on Gregson St.

Why join TPNA?

TPNA brings the neighborhood together for activities and initiatives that improve our community and make living in the heart of Durham so wonderful. One of the oldest and most active neighborhood associations in Durham, TPNA has been integral in preserving historic architecture and open space, working with the city on smart development, and most importantly, building community.

TPNA is for all Trinity Park residents. Our urban neighborhood is a diverse mix of ~40% homeowners and ~60% renters. We encourage ALL residents, homeowners and renters alike, to contribute to our vibrant community by joining TPNA
